

The First Winery in China

Yantai Changyu Castel Chateau is located in Yantai, a wine town with a long tradition of winemaking. Here, there are unique 3S "terroirs" such as the sea, sunshine, and beaches, and the snake dragon pearl wine brewed is highly distinctive and famous both domestically and internationally. The winery was established in April 2001 and officially completed and put into operation on September 8, 2002. It is the first specialized wine winery in China. Its construction has pioneered the development of specialized wineries in China, allowing Chinese people to enjoy their own winery wines. Over the next decade, nearly a hundred wineries of varying sizes were built throughout the country. It can be said that Changyu Castel Chateau is the origin of the entire Chinese winery culture.

The entire production process of the winery, including soil and variety selection, standardized planting, grape harvesting and processing, fermentation, barrel aging, filling, and bottle storage, is carried out in accordance with the classic traditional French brewing techniques. The unique flavor of the Snake Dragon Ball grape in the local area endows Changyu Castel Chateau with unique quality characteristics. After more than a decade of hard cultivation, the vineyards of the winery have become the most precious highlight of the entire winery. Among them, the grape variety garden in front of the main building, hundreds of old vine grapes behind the main building, and standardized wine vineyards are all unique to China. Changyu International Winery Window Co., Ltd., established on the basis of Castel Chateau, has also become a national AAAA level tourist attraction for tourism work.
