

Beijing Changyu Afip
——Drunken European style Castle Estate

The protagonist of the TV series "Let's Get Married" and Peach, after experiencing the hardships of love, finally stepped onto the red carpet leading to the hall of marriage. The place where the two of them held their wedding is Changyu Afip International Winery in Beijing.

This mountain winery is located in Miyun County, Beijing. The European style castle, European town, Notre Dame Church, and large vineyards within the estate attract young men and women to come here to take wedding photos. Afip Chateau also gained the nickname "Love Castle" as a result.

This is not only a "Chateau of love", but also, as the honorary winery owner and former chairman of the International Bureau of Grapes and Wines, Mr. Robert Tinlot, said, Afip is a world-class winery. The winery integrates multinational capital and is built according to international top winery standards, with the chief winemaker also from France.

As soon as you enter the entrance of Afip Chateau, you will be overwhelmed by European style French trees, fountains, patterned flower beds, and more. The main building of the castle is a classic European castle style building, with a 3000 square meter underground wine cellar and rows of French oak barrels quietly nurturing the essence of wine life in the passage of time.

Passing through lush vineyards, one arrived at the small European town built on the mountain. Following the gravel path, you enter the small town arch, where several European style buildings such as the Liquan Palace, church, and Golden Award Brandy Old Distillery are arranged in an orderly manner halfway through the mountains. The small town streets are named after the ancient Greek, Roman, and Babylonian god of wine. Looking around, it feels like being in a small town in southern France.

There are various styles of guest rooms standing in the living area of the small town, including presidential suites, luxury suites, and hotel style apartments. In the Chinese and Western restaurants in the small town, you can also taste rural style dishes, fragrant fried French foie gras and other delicacies, which is truly a great satisfaction.

"Love SPA" is a characteristic of the small town, where there is a grape seed essential oil SPA dominated by authentic original grapes from Beijing. In the full-bodied French style private room, you can enjoy the intoxicating wine while enjoying the essence of grape plants to nourish your body. This natural and mellow beauty penetrates your mind.

"The world's best sommelier" Larson described his trip to the Beijing Changyu Afip Chateau as "exciting and unforgettable". He spent his whole life searching for good wine around the world. After tasting the Afip wine, he believed that certain years of Afip wine have the potential to rival the famous Bordeaux wines in France, especially the Afip Cabernet Sauvignon dry red, which has an elegant deep ruby red color and emits rich aromas of violet, blackcurrant, blueberry, plum, and cedar wood. Afip Chardonnay has a light golden yellow color, clear and transparent, with a fresh fruity aroma and aromas of cream, oak, and vanilla. The taste is round and elegant.

The "world's best sommelier" also provided interesting food matching, such as using Afip Cabernet Sauvignon with abalone Braised pork belly in brown sauce, and using Afip Chardonnay with cuttlefish and shrimp. I believe this must be a wonderful taste feast.

So, it would be a pity if we don't taste the wine here ourselves again. Moreover, when foreign heads of state such as Obama, Putin, and Merkel visited China, they also drank wine from the
